

As the plating industry continues to grow and change, new designs and techniques are essential in lead anodes and related products. Whether the need is for conforming anodes, lead coils, lead lined tanks or a new idea in design, Republic has years of experience in fitting the right product to the right process. Skilled workmen take pride in producing all types of unique anodes.

Illustrated below are some of the specialty products we have provided in internal and external plating anodes. A wide variety of sizes are available using our 1/4" or 3/8" thick grid material which is available in all alloys.

Republic welcomes all inquiries for conforming work.
